

Travelinsider

Ohtel, Wellington

25 November 2008

Leanne Kitchen

66 ORIENTAL PARADE.

The brainchild of local architect Alan Blundell, Ohtel pays homage to the pared-back Scandinavian design ethic of the 1950s and '60s. An uncompromisingly modern building, Ohtel is decked out in mid-century collectables from Blundell's own cache. The 10 rooms are made extremely comfortable with mod cons such as oversized bathtubs and desirable bedding by New Zealand's Native Agent.

Source: Qantas The Australian Way December 2008

Tags: edgy, ensuites, ultra modern